DAHLSTROM & WATT DORMANT HYDRANGEA

Dormant Hydrangea crop is looking good.

Our 2017 propagation is complete. Plants are in all different stages from freshly rooted to nearing readiness for dormant cooling. Pictured above is an array of colors from a few of our varieties. These are from this spring including traditional varieties as well as HBA genetics. To the right a picture of what you can expect in your greenhouse when finishing with respect to roots. Roots are a very important part of the game. Additionally our smaller 4" dormant liner growing happily in a greenhouse setting. Inventory has been update. Early season numbers are going fast.
